Merrimack's 007 on duty with Queen Elizabeth.
He came to Merrimack as what he calls a "child priest" and now teaches the children of his first students. "I never thought at my age I would change my teaching style, but I am, because I think the students need this kind of approach," said Dwyer.

"I believe they have so many distractions in their lives — T.V. and numerous social activities — it has become a greater challenge to hold their attention," he said.

Because students have changed so much during the past few years, along with ideas about education, Dwyer and other faculty will begin conducting freshman seminars this spring; classes that will encourage students to take an active part in their education.

Dwyer's seminar, which he created, will give students an opportunity to determine a congregation's theology by studying the architecture of their churches. The seminar is entitled "Faith Through Architecture," and will include site visits and research. "I never thought at my age I would change my teaching style, but I am, because I think the students need this kind of approach," said Dwyer.

Dwyer received a master's degree in Religious Studies at Georgetown University, and went on to receive a doctorate in Religious Studies at Catholic University in Washington, D.C.

He transferred to Villanova, graduated with a B.A. in Philosophy, and went on to receive a master's degree in Religious Studies at Augustinian College in Washington, D.C. In 1963, at age 26, he returned to Merrimack, this time as professor. "I was only a few years older than my students," said Dwyer.

Dwyer survived his first year and the years following. He has seen many changes over the years, but the biggest one, he believes, is in the students. "They have so many distractions in their lives — T.V. and numerous social activities — it has become a greater challenge to hold their attention," he said.

Because students have changed so much during the past few years, along with ideas about education, Dwyer and other faculty will begin conducting freshman seminars this spring; classes that will encourage students to take an active part in their education.

Dwyer's seminar, which he created, will give students an opportunity to determine a congregation's theology by studying the architecture of their churches. The seminar is entitled "Faith Through Architecture," and will include site visits and research. "I never thought at my age I would change my teaching style, but I am, because I think the students need this kind of approach," said Dwyer.

This dedication to student success is not uncommon at Merrimack — one of the college's greatest strengths is in the faculty committed to teaching. But Dwyer once questioned his own teaching vocation. "Some members of the Order believed lay people should teach and priests belonged in parishes," he said. "I wondered if I was doing the right thing."

Mother Theresa, speaking at a National Catholic Educational Association meeting, helped him realize his decision to teach was right for him. "She said, 'If you applaud my teaching, it means you have a guardian angel,'" Dwyer said.

In keeping with this goal we have extended the Newsnotes section and thank the many alumni who have sent in their news and photographs. We hope to further extend this section, so keep sending us your news.

Finally, we welcome your opinions, suggestions and comments, and wish you the very best in this New Year.
They have to attend the poshest parties and the most important diplomatic and political events. They travel to exotic places, the jet set.

They’re Secret Service men, and three members of the exclusive agency are Merrimack alumni—H. Terrence Samway ’66, D. Paul Sweeney ’64, and Michael Tarr ’73.

The government’s oldest law enforcement agency, established by Lincoln in 1865 to foil counterfeiters, the Secret Service is now also responsible for the protection of presidents, vice presidents, and visiting heads of state, as well as investigations into credit card, bond, and check fraud. It’s demanding and dangerous, but all three love it and don’t intend to leave until they must at age 57. The danger is obvious. Four presidents have been assassinated—Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Kennedy—and six others murderously attacked. Ten presidents have been shot and others badly wounded. When Reagan was shot in 1981, an agent was shot in the stomach, but luckily survived.

Besides the danger, agents often miss family birthdays and anniversaries, and Christmas is just another working day. Tarr, Assistant Special Agent in Charge of Vice Presidential Detail, for instance, spent two Christmases ago in Houston, Without a break, on surveillance in a counterfeit case.” Agents, they agree, often find themselves gazing across the table at another agent rather than at a loved one on New Year’s Eve. Such constraints on their social lives may be why Sweeney only recently married. “My career was certainly a factor,” he says. “Besides,” he adds, “I didn’t do too well in Bob Weiner’s Marriage Preparation course, so maybe I wasn’t ready until now.”

Sweeney and his bride, Diana, were married last August.

While none of the Merrimack graduates have been hurt on duty, each has had his moments. Sweeney’s first out of the trio to join the Service, in 1965, once hid in a closet, gun drawn, while counterfeiters snatched the apartment key he’d been talking to an informant.

“I could hear them moving closer and closer to me. I don’t even know what I was thinking when one finally opened the door. But the guy just looked in fast and didn’t see me. I still wonder what would’ve happened if he had.”

The rigorous training agents undergo prepares them for moments like that. It starts with written exams, drug and polygraph tests, then proceeds to interviews of their families, neighbors, and even former teachers. Only one applicant in 300 is accepted for training, which includes 16 demanding weeks of common sense,” says Tarr. “If we’re checking out a crowd we look for anything unusual, like a man carrying an umbrella on a sunny day, or a woman wearing a heavy coat in summer.”

With training over, however, agents can’t take it easy. Their marksmanship with the Service-issued Big Bauer 9mm semi-automatic is tested monthly and their physical fitness is measured regularly. The Uzi submachine gun and shotgun are also used regularly in training.

But there are rewards for all this devotion. "It has to be the most exciting career around,” says Sweeney, who coordinates protection for visiting heads of state. He supervised protective detail for President Boris Yeltsin’s visit to America and escorted Queen Elizabeth on her recent 13-day U.S. tour.

And Samway won’t soon forget a flight from China to Russia with former President Carter. “As we crossed Mongolia, its government ordered us out of its air space. We headed back to China with two Russian pilots who didn’t speak Chinese and couldn’t communicate with the tower. We found ourselves surrounded by Chinese soldiers when we landed. Thankfully, the American Embassy eventually came to our rescue.”

Samway has accompanied Carter to other foreign countries including Egypt, Germany, England, Thailand, and Japan. He said the former president is welcomed with as much ceremony as a sitting head of state because of the many humanitarian projects he has established. “He is very highly regarded overseas,” says Samway.

Samway, Assistant Director of Protective Research (one of only seven assistant directors), coordinates and distributes intelligence collected by the Secret Service, the FBI, the National Security Agency and the CIA, and safeguards areas such as the presidents’ vacation homes. Samway’s office mapped out the security system, for instance, at President Bush’s Kennebunkport home.

Sweeney, who began the chain of Merrimack agents, continued it in 1969 while on assignment in Waterstone Valley, N.H., with John and Caroline Kennedy. At the time, Samway, who was Merrimack’s Alumni Director, had planned a reunion with Sweeney at the resort.

Samway, also a graduate of Suffolk University Law School, had expressed an interest in law enforcement and, after that weekend with Sweeney, decided to apply to the Secret Service. “My uncle, who was the police chief in Bangor, Maine, sparked my interest, but that weekend Paul fueled it,” said Samway.

His first assignment was in 1974, prosecuting counterfeiters for the U.S. Attorney’s Office. Tarr, the youngster of the group, decided on the Service after talking with Samway during a Merrimack career night. None seems to regret his choice. “I’ve been to the Soviet Union, China, Africa, and many other places most people aren’t fortunate to see,” says Tarr. “And besides that, I look forward to going to work every day. Not everyone can say that.”

But before Merrimack Magazine could fire off more questions to the trio, Tarr cut the interview short. He had learned the day before that Dorothy Bush, the president’s mother, had died and he’d be accompanying the vice president to the funeral. After the election and before inauguration, Tarr and his colleagues were in the adrenaline-pumping position of protecting two presidents and vice presidents. So Merrimack wishes them all a happy, and perhaps a less stressful, new year.
Stolen by the cold hearted, rescued by a heart of gold

The Boston Globe called him "a guardian angel," little boys. The Associated Press carried nation spoken, 45-year-old assistant professor of management and economics at Merrimack. Which is where the story of rescuing "camel jockeys" begins.

The term, too benign for the reality, refers to stolen Bangladeshi youngsters—not usually older than five—are sold to slave traffickers. The children are used in camel races in Persian Gulf states. Strapped to the belly of a racing camel, the boys’ shrieks make the camels run faster. Sometimes the camels fall, crushing the boys.

Sometimes a photo in The Boston Globe last April of a group of these boys who were rescued in India just before they would have been sold to racing agents. He knew right away that he had to do something. His Muslim religion, he says, teaches him that humans are created to help others.

He wanted to get the boys returned to their native Bangladesh and he wanted to shine the light of publicity on the abhorrent practice of slave trafficking. Such a humanitarian impulse was not new to Momen. At the time he learned of the camel jockeys, he had been working to prevent the sale of Bangladeshi women, that the children would be cared for in her orphanage, "Home of Love," but Bangladeshi representatives were reluctant to grant her custody of the children necessary for them to leave India. After concerted international pressure, the Bangladesh government agreed to grant her custody and the last hurdle, paying for the children's transportation, was provided by UNICEF.

Finally, because he knew of her humanitarian work in Bangladesh, Momen contacted Faith Willard. "There was a lot of bureaucratic red tape and dead ends," he recalled. "But then I remembered Faith."

Willard, who runs a Christian camp on Cape Cod and Christian relief efforts in both India and Bangladesh, had founded an orphanage and a school for the deaf, and a hostel for young Bangladesh, has founded an orphanage and a school for the deaf, and a hostel for young Bangladesh, women.

But Momen's work is not over. He is still intent on ending the sale of Bangladeshi women into slavery and prostitution. If his tenacity in publicizing the camel jockeys’ plight won him a measure of recognition, the women of Bangladesh, like some of its youngsters, may have a quiet, but iron-willed, guardian angel.

Robert Rockwell--the "Rock" of McQuade Library

Pipe smoke curls around his left ear, creeping around his head, his bushy eyebrows as he searches his brain file for a word. "What's a nine-letter word for coast?" he asks, looking up from the London Times crossword. Robert Rockwell loves crossword puzzles. "One of them, the British variety which are, he says, full of puns and fun. But before crosswords are Rockwell's passion for books and his job.

The circulation librarian at the McQuade Library for 25 years, Rockwell has shared his interest in books with both students and the local community. He originated and leads the Great Books Discussion group at Andover's Memorial Hall Library and is always available for "book talk" with Merrimack students.

Rockwell took a part-time job at McQuade in 1967 after business slowed down at his family-owned mill in Andover. "We manufactured parts used in textile machinery. But when the industry moved south we slowed down and eventually shut down," says Rockwell. In 1977 he retired from mill work and began to work full-time at McQuade.

"The course of his years at Merrimack he has seen students take a more serious view of their education. They realize the financial burden of a college education and work harder," he says.

In his 10 years at the library, he says he was the "peace keeper." "I used to have to lay down the law," he says. "Now, with his hard disciplinary edge "I've changed. But if you survive as long as I have, you usually mellow."

Even when he was disciplining students, however, they knew he had a friend. Affectionately called Rocky after the Sylvester Stallone movie just because he's so unlike a contentious pugilist, this gentle man says Merrimack students have kept him young. "Just being around them keeps me hopping," he says.

Still living in the North Andover home where he was born, Rockwell, who has never married because "the right one never came along," says New England will always be his home. "When the textile industry had its day, we contemplated moving, but I would have missed the change in seasons. I haven’t traveled much, but I haven’t found any place to take me away either."

Behind him, his eyes open wide. "Inverness—a nine-letter word for coast" and grabs his pen. He laughs and says, "I’ll never be able to give these up."

"This job."
Soccer successes

The Merrimack men’s and women’s soccer teams once again enjoyed success during the 1992 season, as both squads qualified for the Northeast-10 Conference post-season play while posting winning records. The Warrior men, under the direction of 11th-year Head Coach Tony Martone, advanced to the Northeast-10 semi-finals, for eventually falling to NE-10 champion Bentley, 2-1. The Warriors were 8-6 overall this fall, including a 5-4-1 slate in the Northeast-10.

Four Warriors were honored on the Northeast-10 all-conference squad: seniors Rick Augeri of North Andover, co-captains Robby Sciaudone of Maiden and Eric Lusignan of Westfield, and freshman Chris Pearce of Holbrook. Augeri, who led the team in scoring with 12 goals and 11 assists for 33 points, became Merrimack’s all-time leading scorer this season. He notched 34 goals and 25 assists for 96 points, surpassing former Warrior great Joe LoCoco ’91, who had 91 career points. Augeri and Sciaudone were also selected to play in the New England Senior All-Star Game, and Sciaudone was tabbed as a second-team all-New England selection.

On the women’s side, Head Coach Gabe Mejail’s Lady Warriors posted an overall record of 10-9 this season, including a 5-4 mark in the Northeast-10. Merrimack’s overall record marks the ninth straight season that the Lady Warriors have had a winning season under Mejail. Merrimack advanced to the Northeast-10 quarterfinals before falling to Saint Anselm by a 3-2 final. In addition to the five conference wins, the Lady Warriors posted their first-ever victory over perennial national power New Hampshire College on September 15.

Junior Nancy Daly of South Weymouth, who appeared in just 13 games over the last two seasons because of injury, came back with a vengeance this season, leading Merrimack in scoring with eight goals and 17 assists for 33 points, becoming Merrimack’s all-time leader in assists at Merrimack as well, as she notched 31 during her illustrious career. Boyd, Harrington and senior Michelle Humphreys of Wakefield served as tri-captains for Merrimack this past season.

Improvement was the key for the Merrimack women’s tennis team this season, as the Lady Warriors of second-year Head Coach Rick Edelmann posted five victories over Maine, Bentley, Americans International, Massachusetts-Lowell and Franklin Pierce. A youthful Lady Warrior squad should spell more success in the years to come.

Youth led the way for Merrimack this fall, which came in the form of freshman Jolie Stadelman of Lawairce-Stedman was named as the Northwest-10’s Freshman of the Year after posting a combined record of 16-4 in both singles and doubles play. She was named as the conference’s Player and Freshman of the Week September 13 and earned Freshman of the Week honors on two other occasions. Fellow freshman Lisa Sarandopolis of Ipswich was 8-4 in singles play, while junior Lisa Morse of Gloucester was 7-5. Stedman combined with junior Sherr Lascouer of South Portland, Maine for eight wins at number one doubles, while Sarandopolis and senior co-captain Kristen Mejail’s troops are knocking at the door of the Northeast-10 Conference playoffs for the first time in school history. The Mississauga, Ontario native previously compiled a 32-12 mark as the head coach at Nichols College.

Chris Cameron and Pete Paladino, both first year coaches, showed steady improvement with the Merrimack cross country and golf squads this past season. All three teams competed in the Northeast-10 and ECAC tournaments this fall.

Women’s tennis team posts five victories

Merrimack basketball captains for the 1992-93 season are junior Ed Hammonds of Medford, the men’s side and seniors Clare McNerney of Worcester and Rachel Reynolds of Bloomfield, N.J. on the women’s. McNerney’s older sister, Ann, has joined Head Coach Debbie Cogan’s staff as an assistant coach. Ann was the Northeast-10’s Player of the Year in 1989 in women’s basketball and is the all-time leading scorer at Binghamton with 1,406 points. She had previously compiled a 32-12 mark as the head coach at Nichols College.

The Warriors also posted wins over Alabama-Huntsville (6-3 and 6-1) and Saint Anselm (5-2), for their first win over a perennial national power since joining Hockey East. McMillan’s (Weyburn, Saskatchewan) first year coach at Merrimack, N.H. netting the winning 6-5 goal. Mailhiot was named Hockey East Co-Rookie of the Week for his efforts at Maine.

Warrior notebook

Merrimack basketball captains for the 1992-93 season are junior Ed Hammonds of Medford, the men’s side and seniors Clare McNerney of Worcester and Rachel Reynolds of Bloomfield, N.J. on the women’s. McNerney’s older sister, Ann, has joined Head Coach Debbie Cogan’s staff as an assistant coach. Ann was the Northeast-10’s Player of the Year in 1989 in women’s basketball and is the all-time leading scorer at Binghamton with 1,406 points. She had previously compiled a 32-12 mark as the head coach at Nichols College.

The Warriors also posted wins over Alabama-Huntsville (6-3 and 6-1) and Saint Anselm (5-2), for their first win over a perennial national power since joining Hockey East. McMillan’s (Weyburn, Saskatchewan) first year coach at Merrimack, N.H. netting the winning 6-5 goal. Mailhiot was named Hockey East Co-Rookie of the Week for his efforts at Maine.

Senior goalie Mike Deschegy in action against Maine

The Merrimack hockey team started the 1992-93 season with a bang, as the Warriors’ 4-1-1 overall start was their best since joining Hockey East in 1989. Head Coach Ron Anderson saw his club start the season with a come-from-behind 5-4 win at 10th ranked Western Michigan on opening night. Merrimack trailed in the contest by a 1-4 margin after two periods but rallied for four goals in the final 20 minutes, with freshman Ryan Mailhiot of Merrimack netting the winning goal. Mailhiot was named Hockey East Co-Rookie of the Week for his efforts.

The Warriors also posted wins over Alabama-Huntsville (6-3 and 6-1) and Saint Anselm (5-2) before tying 13th-ranked Dartmouth (6-1) and Maine (6-5) before tying 13th-ranked Maine (5-2). The team finished the season with a come-from-behind 5-4 win at 10th ranked Western Michigan on opening night. Merrimack trailed in the contest by a 1-4 margin after two periods but rallied for four goals in the final 20 minutes, with freshman Ryan Mailhiot of Merrimack netting the winning goal. Mailhiot was named Hockey East Co-Rookie of the Week for his efforts.

The Merrimack hockey team started the 1992-93 season with a bang, as the Warriors’ 4-1-1 overall start was their best since joining Hockey East in 1989. Head Coach Ron Anderson saw his club start the season with a come-from-behind 5-4 win at 10th ranked Western Michigan on opening night. Merrimack trailed in the contest by a 1-4 margin after two periods but rallied for four goals in the final 20 minutes, with freshman Ryan Mailhiot of Merrimack netting the winning goal. Mailhiot was named Hockey East Co-Rookie of the Week for his efforts.
Reunion '93 campaign is well underway

Jack Kenney '53, Ken Rogers '68 provide leadership

Led by reunion-giving co-chairs Jack Kenney '53 and Dr. Ken Rogers '68, the 1993 Reunion-Giving Campaign is well underway.

This year's reunion-giving campaign will focus on the anniversary classes of '53, '58, '63, '68, '73, '83 and '88. From a social point of view, we all look forward to our reunion every five years. As a 35-year veteran of 3M's printing and publishing systems division and a resident of Medfield, Mass. 'It is, for many alumni, the only time they return to campus or have an opportunity to visit with their classmates. From a financial point of view, it's important for each of us to renew our commitment to our alma mater. We all deeply appreciate the quality of education we received and value the strong commitment and dedication of the Administration both then and now.'

Rev. Fritz J. Cerrullo, O.S.A., vice president for Merrimack's Office of Institutional Advancement, emphasizes the need to keep the momentum: "We are working hard to ensure that we continue the consistent growth of the past 11 years.

In addition to his Merrimack degree, McBride holds an MBA from the B.U. School of Business Administration. In addition to his Merrimack degree, McBride holds an MBA from the B.U. School of Business Administration. McBride is chairman of the college's Investment Committee and a member of the President's Council.

McKinnon is Transmission Systems Vice President of AT&T's Merrimack Valley Operations. He works manufacturing facility in North Andover—the winner of the 1992 Malcolm Baldrige Award for quality. He is president of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce.

Student news and views

Alumni interested in a subscription to the student newspaper, 'The Argus' should call 908.675.4279 for details.

Homecoming 1993

Cheer the Warriors to victory during this sports and fun-filled weekend. On Friday Merrimack College, beginning at 7 p.m. in the Voelpe Athletic Center. Join other fans in the gym for a complimentary snack after the game.

The women Warriors tip off Saturday against American International College (A.I.C.) at 1 p.m. followed by the men's basketball team against the A.I.C. at 3 p.m. All games are at home. Hockey excitement continues that day with a 7 p.m. game against the U.N.H. Post-game festivities will be aardi Cross to rival New Hampshire. The transformed gym will be the site of a jamming good time.

Sunday morning Mass in the college church will be celebrated in memory of the deceased presidents of Merrimack. Mass will be followed by brunch and a special reception in the dining room on the first floor of Gildea Hall.

Merrimack alumni of the division, now officially recognized as the best manufacturing operation in the United States.

The Merrimack-AT&T relationship did not, however, begin with this award-winning cooperation. The company, when it was known as Western Electric, was instrumental in the establishment of an technical curriculum at the college.

The Transmissions Systems Business Unit of AT&T's Merrimack Valley Works in North Andover, headed by Jack McKinnon '62, was awarded the 1992 Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award.

The award, established in 1987, is named for the late secretary of the Department of Commerce. It recognizes companies with superior systems of managing operations and people as well as satisfying the needs of their customers.

Rev. Jack Kenney '53, vice president of the prize-winning division, works with many Merrimack alumni of the division, now officially recognized as the best manufacturing operation in the United States.

Homecoming 1993
Alumni ambassadors

An Alumni Ambassador Program was initiated last year to put alumni in touch with potential students. Alumni volunteers called candidates, answered questions and shared their Merrimack experiences.

In light of the positive parent and student response the Alumni Council will continue this program in 1993.

Alumni interested in volunteering should call the Alumni Office for more information.

Athletic hall of fame

The next Athletic Hall of Fame banquet has been scheduled and nominations are welcomed by committee chairman Roger Damphouse '92.

Honor our own sports legends at DiBurro’s in Haverhill on Friday, April 2. Cocktails are at 7 p.m., dinner at 7:45, and the awards ceremony at 9 p.m.

Call the Alumni Office (508) 837-5440 for more information.

$200,000 Roger Bower scholarship bequest

The memory of Roger N. Bower, past president of the Men of Merrimack and longtime friend of the college, who died last April, will live on through a $200,000 scholarship bequest he made to Merrimack.

"Roger was a generous, sweet, and caring man who did not want his charity toward Merrimack to end," said Robert F. Kelley, Bower’s attorney and member of the Men of Merrimack.

Bower was the 19th president of the Men of Merrimack and one of only a few members named Honorary Director of the group. He also received an honorary doctorate from the college and was chairman of the St. Augustine Awards Committee.

"So many students are unable to attend college without the support of friends like Roger," said Father Deegan. "It is through the generosity of alumni that we can continue to offer students financial aid."

Students receiving the Dr. Roger N. Bower Men of Merrimack Scholarship must demonstrate leadership qualities, maintain a 2.5 GPA, and need financial assistance to attend college.

Third annual alumni retreat scheduled

"Last year was great; this year was better!"

"It was truly a wonderful experience."

"A great day! Thanks for all your efforts."

These are typical comments received after last year’s Alumni Retreat Day. And this year promises to be even better. The third annual Alumni Retreat Day is again scheduled for the Saturday before Palm Sunday—Saturday, April 3—on campus. As usual, it is not only for alumni, family and friends of alumni and the college are also welcome.

The program will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the monastery chapel with a welcome from Father Deegan, followed by a special Mass. Guided by this year’s theme of Faith, Church, and Change: Liturgy and Worship, participants will compare various aspects of liturgy, traditions, changes, and the role of music in Roman Catholicism and other religions. Presentations will include information and ideas about bow we worship in addition to liturgy.

This year’s program also includes an opportunity for alumni of Merrimack’s M.O.R.E. Retreat Program to gather with other M.O.R.E. alumni to celebrate its 10th anniversary. Following the retreat Campus Ministry will hold a cocktail reception and dinner.

Rev. Edward Hastings, O.S.A., Maura Caples, former campus wedding coordinator; Rev. Brian Lowery, O.S.A.; Rev. Patrick McStravog, O.S.A. and others who initiated and led M.O.R.E. for the past ten years, are expected to join the M.O.R.E. celebration.

Information about the M.O.R.E. reception and dinner will be available in the coming months.

All interested in the Alumni Retreat, however, should sign up now. Reservation deadline is March 26.

More alumni events

On Tuesday, March 9, the Alumni Council will sponsor an Alumni Resource Night at 7 p.m. in Murray Lounge, Gildea Hall, where alumni will share career experiences with students and other alumni. Those attending will be added to an Alumni Resource List, which gives students and alumni access to successful alumni in various professions.

On Wednesday, March 31, alumni will return to "Camelot" when Robert Goodlet, star of the original Broadway production, will return as King Arthur in the Lerner & Lowe classic tale. The spectacular pre-Broadway production will be at the Wang Center in Boston for only $62. For ticket information contact the Alumni Office.

The Lerner & Lowe classic tale. The spectacular pre-Broadway production will be at the Wang Center in Boston for only $62. For ticket information contact the Alumni Office.

The program will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the monastery chapel with a welcome from Father Deegan, followed by a special Mass. Guided by this year’s theme of Faith, Church, and Change: Liturgy and Worship, participants will compare various aspects of liturgy, traditions, changes, and the role of music in Roman Catholicism and other religions. Presentations will include information and ideas about bow we worship in addition to liturgy.

This year’s program also includes an opportunity for alumni of Merrimack’s M.O.R.E. Retreat Program to gather with other M.O.R.E. alumni to celebrate its 10th anniversary. Following the retreat Campus Ministry will hold a cocktail reception and dinner.

Rev. Edward Hastings, O.S.A., Maura Caples, former campus wedding coordinator; Rev. Brian Lowery, O.S.A.; Rev. Patrick McStravog, O.S.A. and others who initiated and led M.O.R.E. for the past ten years, are expected to join the M.O.R.E. celebration.

Information about the M.O.R.E. reception and dinner will be available in the coming months.

All interested in the Alumni Retreat, however, should sign up now. Reservation deadline is March 26.

The 1993 St. Augustine Awards

Dear Father Deegan:

I would like to nominate for the St. Augustine Award

(Name)

(Address)

(City/State/Zip)

(Home Telephone--Business Telephone)

Date

Dear Father Deegan:

I would like to nominate for the St. Augustine Award

(Name)

(Address)

(City/State/Zip)

(Home Telephone--Business Telephone)

Date

Please check the designation of the award for which you nominate this individual (please check ONE only):

( ) to a Merrimack College graduate for service to the college (class year: 19_.)

( ) to an individual for service to the greater Merrimack Valley community.

( ) to an individual for service to the Catholic community of the Merrimack Valley region.

for the following reasons:

Your comments on this nomination should be confined, as much as possible, to this form. Please be as complete but as concise as possible, responding to as many categories as you believe apply to this nomination. Incomplete questionnaires could result in the elimination of a candidate; we cannot call for more information about a nominee.

Professional achievements/accomplishments

Contributions to the betterment of the Valley region and/or community.
KEEPING IN TOUCH

Examples of community leadership, philanthropy, etc.

For nominations for the award for service to the Catholic community:
Contributions and commitment to the Catholic community of the Valley region

Please use the space below for any additional comments you would like to make in support of this nomination...

SIGNED

Address
City/State/Zip

Home Telephone-Business Telephone (for verification only)

The information on this sheet will be kept in the strictest confidence. Only signed nomination forms will be considered.

Thank you for your participation.

Deadline for nominations: June 4, 1993.

The awards ceremony will be held October 23, 1993.

Class notes

By Kristin M. Smith '93

Maureen (Sullivan) Burke '77 and husband Raymond: a daughter, Kayla Helene, August 31, 1992.

Anne Franco McAndrew '77 and husband David: a son, Charles Albert, July 7, 1992.

Elaine Carifio Jean '79 and husband Paul: a son, David, May 9, 1992.

Karen (Kington) Brouillard '80 and husband Christian: a daughter, Danielle Alison, August 6, 1992.

Mary Ellen "Mel" (Reall) Buckland '80 and husband Shawn: a son, Brendan Michael, February 17, 1992.

Charla Bizios Labbe '81 and husband Matthew: a daughter, Danielle Alison, September 13, 1992.

Mary Anderson '82 and wife Ann: a daughter, Glen Vincent, September 21, 1992.

Mark Breneus '82 and wife Nora (McNeven) '81: a daughter, Caroline Connell Nancy, July 20, 1992.

Paul Saverbrunn '82 and wife Beth (Egan) '82: a daughter, Christina Elizabeth, September 8, 1992.

Michael J. Donovan '84 and wife Laurie: a daughter, Conor Joseph, September 2, 1992.

Howard McBride '84 and wife Sharon (MacLeod) '84: a son, Patrick Edward, June 22, 1992.

Mark A. Paquette '88 and wife Suzanne (Thomas) '88: a daughter, Monica Marie, May 4, 1992.

In memoriam

Paul Desmond, 59, vice president of finance for Warner E. Collins Inc. of Boston, died Sept. 12 at his Cambridge home. He was well known in the financial world for his work in corporate and investment restructuring. He is survived by his wife, Elisa, of Cambridge; three children; and two grandchildren.

Edward A. Lariviere '52 of Haverhill, who lived many years in Nashua, N.H., died Sept. 18. He was 62. Before his retirement in 1987 he was assistant controller in the AT&T systems pellet. He is survived by his wife, Patricia; four sons; a daughter; a sister; and three brothers.

Michael "Mookie" DeStefano '71 of Merrimack, who died Aug. 11 in Concord, N.H., was a member of the Merrimack College Women's Basketball team in 1970. He is survived by his son, Brian; his daughter, Corey; and his brother, John.

John B. of Methuen, Brian G. of Dracut; Tom Deveau '70 of Lynn died Sept. 21. Before his death in North Andover, he had worked for 31 years. Lariviere was a member of the Athletic Fund Committee at Merrimack College. Power was a member of the Athletic Fund Committee at Merrimack College. Power was a member of the Athletic Fund Committee at Merrimack College.

Lariviere was a member of the Athletic Fund Committee at Merrimack College. Power was a member of the Athletic Fund Committee at Merrimack College.

McGinnis wrote: "Brian Richard O'Connor was 15 years old when he died. One of Brian's creations was the poem "Dogtags," a protest of the Vietnam War. The parcel was from Brian's mother. She wrote: "We are all thinking of you. We miss you more than words can say."

The parcel was from Brian's mother. She wrote: "We are all thinking of you. We miss you more than words can say."

After graduating from Merrimack he received a master's degree in accounting at New Hampshire State University. He was a member of the Athletic Fund Committee at Merrimack College. Power was a member of the Athletic Fund Committee at Merrimack College.

John H. Perreault '63, a teacher and football coach in the North Andover area, died Sept. 1. Perreault is survived by his wife, Mary; his daughter, Jennifer; and his son, John.

John B. of Methuen, Brian G. of Dracut; Tom Deveau '70 of Lynn died Sept. 21. Before his death in North Andover, he had worked for 31 years. Lariviere was a member of the Athletic Fund Committee at Merrimack College. Power was a member of the Athletic Fund Committee at Merrimack College. Power was a member of the Athletic Fund Committee at Merrimack College.
Tom was elected mayor of Anaheim, William Daly reports that his son and his wife Janet live in Brea, Calif. where he had been a vice president for 21 years. Successful, fulfilling, life. A fellow Philadelphian and member of the alumni council will embark on a program to spotlight and recognize alumni. One of our members, Richard T. Stoecler was awarded a master's degree in public administration at Suffolk University. He is principal of Real Management Services in Andover, Mass., where he also lives with his wife, Laura, and their two children.

At the alumni reception at Colony Springs were, from the left, Dave Mallard, Frank Colley '56, Cheryl Mallard '57, Greg Mallard and Emily Colley '53. Good job.

Richard T. Gardner has been named head of the English Department at Mendon High School in Mendon, Marshfield, Mass. where he has taught since 1973. Robert T. Stoetzel was awarded a master's degree in public administration at Suffolk University. He is principal of Real Management Services in Andover, Mass., where he also lives with his wife, Laura, and their two children.

Mary H. Doyle of Belmont, Mass. was named assistant principal at the Ahern Middle School in Fitchburg, Mass.

Robert J. Zatta has been appointed vice president and financial administrator for Campbell Soup Company-Europe. Zatta, who will be responsible for the financial administration, operational accounting, treasury, tax, and management information systems for the company’s business in Europe, lives in Brussels with his wife, Kathy, and their three children.

Gail J. (Steponaitis) Meka has been promoted to total quality manager of Dupont-Merk Pharmaceuticals in Manati, Puerto Rico. She lives in Dorado Beach, Puerto Rico with her husband, Dennis.

Theodore "Terry" Monahan, a sports writer for the Times Advocate in Enfield, Calif., has been appointed to the 1992 San Diego Press Club board of directors. Monahan's story was about a pitcher who, after suffering a severely Achilles tendon, became an all-leaguer within months. This is Monahan's 9th award in his almost 20 years as a sports writer. He lives in San Marcos, Calif. with his wife, Joan, their daughters, Erin and Kelly.

John F. Landy has been appointed western regional sales manager for Business Intelligence and his wife, Gail, live in The Woodlands, Texas. William Marsden has been named president of Concorde Brands, a candy and confectionary company for three years, lives in Waltham.

Richard D. Colleran was awarded a master's degree in public administration at Suffolk University. He is principal of Real Management Services in Andover, Mass., where he also lives with his wife, Laura, and their two children.

John F. Landy has been appointed western regional sales manager for Business Intelligence and his wife, Gail, live in The Woodlands, Texas. William Marsden has been named president of Concorde Brands, a candy and confectionary company for three years, lives in Waltham.

Kenneth J. Swymy has joined The Netherlands Insurance Company market support services department as director of technical training. He is responsible for designing, developing and conducting training programs for marketing and underwriting personnel and their customers. Swymy, who has been with the KBC for three years, currently works with the KBC-HQ based in New York and he currently works with the KBC-HQ based in New York.

Dorothy (Losowski) Boisvert completed a doctorate in education at New Mexico State University, in Las Cruces, N.M. She is a director of technical training at YMC America. Terri S. LeBeeau, business director for Chemical Intermediates in the Clays and Metals Department of Dow U.S.A. in Chicago, Ill., was inducted into the YMC-Academy of Women Achievers. She joins more than 1,200 American women who have been honored for their work as management in business, labor and nonprofit organizations. The award, given at the 5th Annual Salute to Women Achievers Luncheon in New York City, recognized LeBeeau as coordinator and planner of a product line with more than $170 million in annual sales.

Quvenz Angeles was re-elected to her seventh term as state representative for Beacon, Lynn, and Melrose. He is serving his eighth year as chairman of the House Committee on Natural Resources and Agriculture.

Sandra L. Mayo, who lives in Westwood, Mass., has been appointed assistant director of the American Lung Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island where she is responsible for the American Lung Association's tobacco control activities. Sandra is also a member of the American Lung Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island where she is responsible for the American Lung Association's tobacco control activities. Sandra is also a member of the American Lung Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island where she is responsible for the American Lung Association's tobacco control activities.

Richard D. Colleran was awarded a master's degree in business administration at Boston College in Chestnut Hill, Mass. His work focused on the role of internal auditors and their contribution to corporate performance. He is currently employed by a large international firm as a senior auditor and has been actively involved in the audit profession for many years.

Diane (Lovallo) Borey was recently appointed to the board of directors of the Boston Women's Foundation and is currently serving as its treasurer. She is a member of the board of directors of the Massachusetts Women's Foundation and has been involved with various women's organizations in the Boston area. She is also a member of the board of directors of the Boston Women's Foundation and is currently serving as its treasurer. She is a member of the board of directors of the Massachusetts Women's Foundation and has been involved with various women's organizations in the Boston area.

Peter C. Bakansky has been appointed director of government accounting office's' public accountancy office in New York City, where he will be responsible for overseeing the office's' work on government accounting standards and the development of accounting principles. He has been with the office for 22 years and has been involved in the development and implementation of government accounting standards and practices. He has been with the office for 22 years and has been involved in the development and implementation of government accounting standards and practices.

Sandra L. Mayo, who lives in Westwood, Mass., has been appointed assistant director of the American Lung Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island where she is responsible for the American Lung Association's tobacco control activities. Sandra is also a member of the American Lung Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island where she is responsible for the American Lung Association's tobacco control activities. Sandra is also a member of the American Lung Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island where she is responsible for the American Lung Association's tobacco control activities.
John A. Froio recently graduated from Fairleigh Dickinson University. Froio is an assistant manager at the Ring, who is a skilled-nursing residence in the New England School of Law. John, with his wife, Diane, and daughter, Rebecca.

William C. Shouldice IV was named Massachusetts Department's Lincoln-Washington, D.C. Hutchings teaches seventh and eighth grade American history at the Huntington Learning Center in River Edge, N.J.

Rev. Edward J. Arsenault has been appointed administrator of Wingate Hill with her husband, Gordon, and two children. Cassie Hill and Karen Sacco.

Dann Mauro received his degree from Tufts University School of Dental Medicine. Mauro is a technical writer/editor for Factory Mutual Engineering in Norwood, Mass.

Paul W. Hewett recently received an M.B.A. in finance from Fairleigh Dickinson University. Hewett is an assistant assistant manager at the Ring, who is a skilled-nursing residence in the New England School of Law. John, with his wife, Diane, and daughter, Rebecca.

Bob Hutchings recently coached the seventh and eighth grade American history at the Huntington Learning Center in River Edge, N.J.

The fourth generation in his family to attend the Pre-Reunion Reception.
Rev. David Dismas, S.S.C. is pursuing a Master of Divinity degree with a specialization in Biblical Studies at the Boston University School of Theology. He was selected as a student this year for his leadership qualities. Father Dismas has been appointed a member of the Advisory Council to the National Council of Bishops of the Apostolic Orthodox Catholic Church in Foster, R.I. He is editor of the diocese's newsletter.

Angela M. Martinelli of Woburn, Mass., has joined the staff of Applied Management Systems in Burlington, Mass., as a collection specialist in the Hospital Collections Services division.

91
Stephanie Hulcher of Watertown, Mass., was promoted to financial administrator of Cambridge Savings Bank of Cambridge where she has worked for two years.

Megan Mary Sullivan is living and working in Telluride, Colorado, where she teaches at the Montessori School.

92
Paul F. Bowlby has joined Bardwell & D Angelo Bowlby Insurance Agency as a collection representative. He lives and works in Pittsfield, Mass.

Gary Duda was named 1992 New England Collegiate Athletic Conference Division II Male Athlete of the Year. He finished his career as a member of Merrimack’s basketball team with 2,019 points, and holds the New England record for career three pointers, with 389.

Jennifer McCormack has joined the Student recreational department as Clark and assistant director.

Kevin S. Regan of Stoneham, Mass., has enlisted in the Army Reserve as part of the Delawox Entry Program, and stationed to Fort Ben, Harrison, Ind., where he is being trained as a personnel administration specialist.

Robert Rossilli has joined Glass Co. as a pharmaceutical sales representative. He lives and works in Hyannis, Mass.

Send us your news.

If you’ve received an award, promotion, been married or had a baby, served a graduate degree, moved, obtained a new job... help us keep Merrimack graduates up to date. Complete the form below. We welcome black-and-white photos.

MAIL TO: Merrimack Magazine, Merrimack College, 325 Turner Street, North Andover, MA 01845

PLEASE TYPE OR PRINT

Name ___________________________ Date ____________

Nickname if preferred ___________________________

Home Address ___________________________________________

City/State/Zip ___________________________

Home Telephone ( ) ___________________________

Business Telephone ( ) ___________________________

Employed by ___________________________

Position ___________________________

Business Address ___________________________________________

City/State/Zip ___________________________

Is your address a NEW address? Yes No

Here’s what’s NEWS:

In the recently published Annual Report of Donors, the Class of 1964 was incorrectly labeled as the Class of 1960 (page 20). The names listed, however, are correct. We apologize for the error and hope the Class of 1964 along with all the other classes, for its continued support and dedication to Merrimack.

At the Merrimack Night at Fenway Park were (back row I. to r.) Kathleen Kirby ’86, Maureen Mullen ’86, Nancy Shannon ’86 (front row I. to r.) Anne (Quinn) Heffernan ’85 and Julie Licopali ’85.

At the Merrimack Night at Fenway Park were (back row I. to r.) Kathleen Kirby ’86, Maureen Mullen ’86, Nancy Shannon ’86 (front row I. to r.) Anne (Quinn) Heffernan ’85 and Julie Licopali ’85.

1. Champion® Sweatshirt

Gray, heavy weight, 100% cotton, S-L, $16.50

XXL, $16.95

2. Hockey T-Shirt

Champion® T with red & yellow lettering, $6.95

XXL, $7.45

3. Jersey Shirts

100% cotton knit, embroidered logo, navy, red, yellow, $10.95

XXL, $11.45

4. Fleece

White with navy trim, $12.50

5. Teddy Bear

Gray vest, navy hat, "Something From Merrimack College," Lesno, Ma., $21.95

6. Coffee Mug

Navy ceramic with gold detail, $8.95

7. Baseball Cap

Embroidered on 100% navy wool cap with yellow bill, one size fit all, $13.95

8. License Plate

Navy & yellow lettering, $3.95

9. Round Decal

Navy & yellow lettering, $2.50

10. Alumni Decal

Navy & yellow lettering, $2.50

11. Glass Pitcher

55 oz with gold seal, $11.25

12. Highball Glass

12 oz with gold seal, $11.25

13. Mickey Mouse T

Children’s T with red, black & yellow artwork, $9.95

14. Infant Sleeper

Cotton, navy & yellow lettering, Small: 11 pounds, Medium: 22 pounds, Large: 29 pounds, $21.95

15. Infant Outfit

Two piece set: socks, hat, booties, $9.95

16. NOT SHOWN:

Cotton Baby Blanket, "loves Me, loves Me not," $16.95

Shipping:

S&H at no extra charge. On all orders under $30.00, add 10% to your order. On all orders over $30.00, add 15% to your order.

RETURN POLICY:

If you are not fully satisfied, please return the item(s) within 30 days of receipt, post-paid. All S&H charges will be refunded in creditable conditions.

Send us your news: If you’ve received an award, promotion... been married or had a baby... served a graduate degree... moved... obtained a new job... help us keep Merrimack graduates up to date. Complete the form below. We welcome black-and-white photos.

MAIL TO: Merrimack College Alumni, Merrimack College, 325 Turner Street, North Andover, MA 01845

PLEASE TYPE OR PRINT

Name ___________________________ Date ____________

Nickname if preferred ___________________________

Home Address ___________________________________________

City/State/Zip ___________________________

Home Telephone ( ) ___________________________

Business Telephone ( ) ___________________________

Employed by ___________________________

Position ___________________________

Business Address ___________________________________________

City/State/Zip ___________________________

Is your address a NEW address? Yes No

Here’s what’s NEWS:

In the recently published Annual Report of Donors, the Class of 1964 was incorrectly labeled as the Class of 1960 (page 20). The names listed, however, are correct. We apologize for the error and hope the Class of 1964 along with all the other classes, for its continued support and dedication to Merrimack.
Dr. Albert DeCiccio '74, dean of Liberal Arts and associate professor of English (right) in an "interactive learning" session with students (from left) Christopher Wood, Stephen Pride and Tina Wood. DeCiccio has been working with five faculty members who will introduce the interactive approach in Freshman Seminars this spring. The educational technique places more responsibility for learning on students, who are not allowed to sit passively in class—and more responsibility on teachers, who can no longer rely on lectures for eliciting student response. The result has been, according to educational research, that, because of their active involvement, students learn better. Professors offering seminars are Dr. Kathleen Fitzpatrick of Biology, Dr. Vincent Turano of Civil Engineering, Rev. Kevin Dwyer, O.S.A., of Religious Studies, Dr. Arthur Ledoux of Philosophy, and Dr. David Walsh, dean of studies. (Photo by David Oxton).